TO-DAY'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

Wanted—Canvasser.

THE weather that we have to-day,
Informs you that you must
Take out your winter overcoat,
And from it shake the dust.
And when you're muffled up in it,
Perhaps you'll come to see,
You're not as warm in this old world,
As in the next you'll be.

The river is falling slowly to-day.

The Vanceburg packet, G. W. Thompson, failed to arrive to-day.

With the exception of the BULLETIN, the best picture of Craft was printed by the Courier-Journal.

The new machinery has been put in position at the ice factory and work was resumed this morning.

The cotton mills, which have not been in operation for the past two weeks, resumed work this morning.

The tobacco crop in this county will be much better than was expected, the open season having allowed it to mature properly.

Says the Bracken Chronicle: "Last week a Maysville lady gave birth to four children, and now all the October marriages in this section have been postponed."

The morning train on the Kentucky Central now leaves at six o'clock instead of 6:10 as heretofore, and the afternoon train at 12:40 instead of one o'clock. The change went into effect to-day.

DR. HENDERSON will begin a series of meetings in his church, beginning the first Sunday in November, will be aided by his son, Rev. Harry Henderson, of Bath county, the boy preacher.

The game of base ball Saturday between the Maysville and Dayton clubs resulted in the defeat of the latter by a score of 17 to 16. In the game Sunday afternoon the Dayton club was victorious by a score of 32 to 10.

A SOCIETY for the suppression of horse stealing was organized in Brown county, Ohio, in 1845, and still exists, with a large membership. Since it was formed nearly forty years ago, only four horses have been stolen from its members, and every one of them was recovered. Horse thieves invariably give Brown county a wide berth.

MANY people at Lexington are inclined to believe Craft's protestations of innocence, and think he was illegally hanged. The Transcript says: If Neal can get a venue to this city, he will, by the time of his trial so create a sympathy for him through the medium of tender-hearted jailors and reporters, his fellow-prisoners, and many of the State Guard, who were with him through his trial, that it will be almost impossible to find a jury here who will hang him, though they may send him to the penitentiary for life.

Maysville Invention.
The following notice of the spindle invented by Mr. J. Q. Jaquith, of this city, is taken from the Courier-Journal, of the 12th inst.:

A few days ago there was put up among the cotton machinery a Kentucky invention—a frame of spindles—very different from the attention of person-familiar with the manufacture of thread. Messrs. Sanbury & Wood, of Maysville, enter this exhibit. The inventor is a veteran in mill experience, Mr. J. Q. Jaquith, who saw on Monday, for the first time, the labor of two years realized in a frame of 250 spindles. He claims for this spindle a radical improvement on any now in use in the world. When the spindles had been tried, thoroughly tried, he knew that everything he had claimed for his invention was more than realized, and he boldly proclaimed results. He said to all experts: "These spindles are running 12,000 turns per minute, and are spinning successfully No. 40 yarn at a higher speed than any other spindle in the world." He pointedly calls your attention to the fact that the two spindles at the pulley-end of the frame are running at the unprecedented speed of 18,000 turns per minute, and spinning thread successfully. This is so much in excess of the highest speed obtained by any other spindle in use that one would infer that revolution had been quietly accomplished in this penitentiary industry. While speed is a matter largely of opinion on the part of spinners, the inventor of the Kentucky spindle claims for this improvement in speed one-third increase per spindle over every other machine, with less power to run a frame. He claims successfully for this spindle: substantiality, durability, light running on little power, no waste of oil, cleanliness, easily cured for, no weak parts, no jar, no friction perceptible or possible, and consequently unlimited durability. The spindle sets in a socket six inches long, which is perforated with small holes for the admission of oil, which surrounds the open space in the tube in which the socket is set. The bottom of the spindle works on a steel step, which fits into a cork longer than the step, and thus all pressure is regulated, all lapping is prevented and a perfect and reliable movement obtained. This is the first radical improvement in cotton machinery made by a Southern mechanic. It is open to critical inspection, and is the prelude to still wider and more important improvements. After working two years on his invention Mr. Jaquith saw for the first time, on Monday last, his spindles in actual operation, making at night 9,000 turns per minute. He had no fears for his invention, and his expectations have been more than realized. He boldly asserts that he has the most perfect, enduring spindle in the world, and, as to speed, he can increase it to as great an extent as he is named. All the cotton machinery people should give this new candidate for spinning honors an impartial examination. It is in operation in value and importance are not hypothetical.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. Melissa Rosser is very ill to-day. Mr. Thomas A. Davis, of Cincinnati, is in the city.

Rev. Jos. C. Frank, of Elizaville, is in Maysville to-day.

Miss Jennie Kehoe is visiting friends at Georgetown, Ky.

Mr. George Burrows and wife are visiting the Louisville Exposition.

Mr. Hubermehl and son, of Chicago, are visiting the family of Mr. Webber, of Lewisburg.

Col. E. M. Norton, one of the founders of the Ashland Iron Works, died at Wheeling last week.

Messrs. Ed. and James Fitzgerald left this morning to visit their sister, Miss Mollie Fitzgerald, at New Albany, Ind. They will also go to see the exposition at Louisville.

Quite an interesting event occurred yesterday at the residence of Edward L. Hill. Mrs. Frances E. Owens, his aunt, of Chicago, gave an ice cream treat to the twenty-one grandchildren of the late Mrs. John Hill. As one of the children expressed herself, "I never had such a good time in my life." There were present nine children of Edward L. Hill and his wife, Elizabeth Ruether—six boys and three girls; five children of John N. Hill and wife, Susan Sweeney—four girls and one boy; two children of Robert L. Hill and wife, Adaline Tolle—one boy and one girl; five children of Mary Jane Hill and husband, Frederick Dresel—four boys and one girl, together with four uncles, cousins and aunts.

Many forget that the hair and scalp need cleansing as well as the hands and feet. Extensive use of Ayer's Hair Vigor has proven that it is the best cleansing agent for the hair—that it prevents as well as removes dandruff, cools and soothes the scalp, and stimulates the hair to renewed growth and beauty.

Mr. Eddie Case and sister, and Mrs. Wiloughby, of Bourbon county, were visiting here last week.

Master Rector Woodward, of Windom, Ky., was visiting relatives here the latter part of last week.

Tilman Craft to Ellis Craft—The Prayer on the Gallows.

The following farewell letter written by Tilman Craft to his brother was delivered just before the latter's execution:

CATLETTSBURG, Ky., Oct. 11, 1883.
DEAR BROTHER ELLIS: This may be the last letter you will ever receive from me. I have fought the fight through for you. I have only quit the field when the last resource has been exhausted.

I want you to tell the truth to-morrow.

What you say on that day must not be disputed before me. Tell the truth!

In heaven I hope we will meet. If they have done you wrong in this world, in the upper court, beyond the grave, we'll know all. If they persecuted you wrongfully, we unto them in the everlasting life, if you are innocent. You may be cast down here, but in eternity James Hefflin, A. C. Campbell, John Russell and D. D. Geiger cannot harm you, for then all will be well.

My brother, tell the truth and then I will be satisfied.

Every line I have written causes me to drop a tear.

Dear brother, in the years to come, when the work is finished, stand on the shore of the "dark river" and hold a light, my brother, so that I may pass over.

If you are only innocent, and die as such, "Praise God!" the warfare is ended, the victory won, and I will say, "peace on earth, good will to men."

God says, "Vengeance is mine, I will repay the wicked."

But, oh! that dear, heart-broken mother that lies at the feet of the Master to-day. Only He that knows all hearts knows her sorrow. There are those who pass through all the hardships of this world, but in Heaven they are rich,—rich unto everlasting life.

I praise God that there is justice in the other world. Die with the truth upon your lips and the praise of Him who has said, "Come unto me all ye that are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

My dear brother, I know you need rest. What you have suffered is only known to Him who says, "Tis enough, come up higher."

Praise God, and die telling the truth, is all I ask. Your brother,

T. CRAFT.

The following prayer was made by Craft upon the scaffold: "Oh, God, this is the most solemn occasion that I have ever bowed before Thee; I bow not for form, nor for fashion, but to save my almighty soul; Father, hear and answer my prayers; Oh, Jesus, thou knowest I am without fault; kind and blessed Saviour I will soon meet Thee; I am about to leave this world, and I feel the angels hovering around my soul. Oh, my Father, thou saidst thou wouldst be with us in the sixth trouble, and in the seventh trouble thou wouldst not cast us away; oh, Father, show unto these people that they have slain a poor, innocent man. Kind Saviour, I ask of Thee to bring the guilty parties to light that the world may see that I am innocent. Oh, forgive me of all my sins in this world, and take me home to Heaven, for Jesus' sake. Amen."
